Hi we're Nico and Shaun.

We live for great beer.
At our 21st Amendment Brewery,
if it's not original, it's not worth a damn.

STEP 3
The grist mill cracks the grain to expose the starch

In 1920, there were more than a thousand brewpubs across America serving their communities with unique hand-crafted beer and great local food. And then Prohibition wiped out this great culture. After thirteen years without beer, the states ratified the 21st Amendment, ending Prohibition.

To us, the 21st Amendment is more than the right to make beer. It's the right to do it the original American way, before Prohibition killed the tradition of brewing it brave and true. At the 21st Amendment Brewery, we celebrate the freedom to brew beer, the right to be innovative, and the obligation to have fun.
